PREFACE.

IN the preparation of the present issue (23rd) of SANDS'S SYDNEY DIRECTORY, the greatest care has been exercised, and a large number of changes and additions have been introduced which cannot fail to be appreciated by subscribers, and, at the same time, afford evidence of the Publisher's desire to keep pace with the requirements of an ever varying and ever increasing mercantile community.

On perusal of the work, it will be found that a thorough and distinct classification of the Trades and Professions' section has been effected, whereby the relative branches of businesses are more readily and clearly shown. This will be apparent on reference to the terms "Merchants, Warehousemen, Grocers, Hotels," &c. To insure accuracy, upwards of ninety new trades and professions have been added.

Lists of firms who have fixed pay days, and those who are connected with the telephone Exchange, have also been added.

The miscellaneous section has also been augmented by the addition of 250 items of useful information.

The names of upwards of 3700 more householders will be found when compared with the previous issue.

The Publisher desires to tender his sincere thanks to the gentlemen connected with the Government and the various institutions, and also to the mercantile community, for the interest evinced by them in the compilation of the book by supplying much valuable and accurate information.

In conclusion, he gratefully acknowledges the liberal patronage accorded to the work by subscribers and advertisers for the past 23 years.
