VIOLIN MAKERS.

BRIDGES S. A.

489 Elizabeth st. Violin Maker and Repairer, Bows Repaired, Pianos, Mandolins, Accordions, Concertinas, Banjos and Guitars tuned and repaired. Pupils received. S. A. BRIDGES challenges to make a Violin against any person in the world. Test proof, superior quality and quantity of tone. Gritty, Grating, Grinding, Rasping Toned Fiddles (called Violins) are yearly sent to the Colonies. The Dearest are no better than the cheapest as regards beauty of tone. In that respect they are all alike, and only fit for firewood. The Varnish on them is the cause of their being so. To play on them a person requires the head of a Donkey, with Ears of a mule, and nerve strong as an Ox to stand such Torture, many of them having Grit enough to make ones flesh creep, your hair rise, or set your Teeth on edge. My Varnish on Violins produces Musical tones, that when played upon, Sing, as if there were a Human Soul within

An Uniquely Complete Organization.

Department for the Collection of Outstanding Accounts.

The work of this department, carried on under improved modern methods, continues to show very substantial progress, and a glance at the figures submitted below discloses the fact that it has resulted in effecting for members the recovery of a very large sum during the past year which otherwise might have been lost. The commercial community sell goods with a definite understanding as to terms, and they expect bills to be met according to these terms, because the decreasing margin of profit in business does not permit long or extended credits. The business man must turn his capital much oftener than he did in former years to make a profit, and prompt returns for goods sold have become a necessity. It is no doubt this necessity and these conditions that have made business houses recognise the improved facilities afforded by the Association for undertaking the collection of their overdue and doubtful accounts promptly and efficiently. It is an admitted fact that a customer who has an overdue account with one house will place his current order with another house; the loss is apparent. Because an account is not paid promptly when due does not necessarily signify that the debtor is no longer to be trusted or that the claim is doubtful. There are a good many people in business who do not know the value of punctuality and who are careless in meeting their engagements to a most aggravating extent, and yet they are judged, from past experience at least, to be good. The chronically slow man is no doubt most exasperating; he moves just so fast and no faster, and whether trade or seasons are good or bad makes not a particle of difference in his movements; sometimes he is even too slow to take offence. Statistics, however, prove that the great majority of losses occur among overdue accounts, and the collection of accounts, when due, will reduce the number of eggs which a firm has in each of its customer's baskets. Sharpness and quick action are necessary when a debtor fails both to pay his accounts and to give any satisfactory reason for his delay in paying after repeated letters from the creditor have admonished him. The longer a payment is put off, the heavier the burden becomes, and the older a debt is the harder it is to collect. If a merchant believes an account to be unsafe, and if he has the facts to back his opinion, which he ought to have, he should immediately place it in the hands of the Association for recovery, if loss is to be avoided.

It is pleasing to be able again to record a large increase in the returns of this department during the year just ended. The total sum collected on behalf of members amounted to £70,142 as against £68,533 recovered during the previous year, an increase of £1609.
